RELIABILITY for real life®

Initial considerations

Before you select a window material or type, there are a few things you should think about, such as where you live, the placement of your windows and local building codes. When you reflect upon these criteria, you'll be able to choose windows and patio doors that are best suited to your home.

Climate

When selecting windows and patio doors, it's important to remember that every climate has its own benefits and challenges. Aluminum is appropriate in warm climates, where a high level of insulation isn't necessary. Vinyl is a durable material that requires minimal maintenance, offers a high level of insulation, and is appropriate for any climate. Wood with painted exteriors provides good insulation but requires regular maintenance. Therefore, be careful if you select wood windows for areas with either heavy precipitation or hot, direct sunlight. Wood with metal-clad exteriors is an excellent choice for most climates and weather conditions, because metal cladding has a very durable finish that requires minimal maintenance.

Wall exposures

The placement of windows on certain walls can determine the kind of natural light admitted into your home, or even the performance of the windows. South- and east-facing windows bring in bright, golden light, north-facing windows usher in the cooler, muted light, and west-facing windows let in abundant direct sunlight, as well as the beauty of sunsets. Also consider that windows on south-, southwest-, southeast- or west-facing walls will require careful maintenance due to sun exposure. In addition to wall placement, you should choose the proper glass, which can help regulate temperature in a room (please see page 10 to learn more about glass options).

Building codes

In certain areas, windows must fulfill building requirements or codes. For example, homes in regions prone to hurricanes or high winds must be able to withstand being hit with strong force. So JELD-WEN offers a range of windows and patio doors with impact-resistant glass to meet the most stringent codes.

The right ingredients

Reliable JELD-WEN® windows and patio doors are offered in four materials: wood, clad-wood, vinyl and aluminum. Each type has its own advantages, and one may be more appropriate for your home and lifestyle than the others.

Wood and Clad-Wood

Add visual warmth and elegance to your home with JELD-WEN® wood windows and patio doors. These made-to-order windows feature detailed craftsmanship, and they're available with an abundance of options to meet your aesthetic requirements. Wood windows and patio doors with primed exteriors can be painted any color you choose, while clad-wood exteriors are an especially low-maintenance choice. Metal cladding also lets you add character to your home with one of our many clad colors or copper finishes.

Vinyl

Select JELD-WEN® vinyl windows and patio doors for the perfect combination of durability, energy efficiency and affordability. Vinyl requires minimal maintenance, because it never needs to be painted or stained. It also won't chip or peel. JELD-WEN vinyl windows and patio doors also feature our exclusive multichamber design, which greatly increases thermal efficiency. In addition to various performance benefits, these windows provide a very clean, streamlined appearance. They are supported by a limited lifetime warranty.

Aluminum

JELD-WEN® aluminum windows and patio doors are a low-maintenance choice that will fit any budget. These windows feature an extruded alloy frame and sash for durable performance. This strong material also ensures consistent rust and mildew resistance. They're appropriate for warm, mild climates.

AuraLast® wood

A unique vacuum/pressure process provides virtually 100% penetration of the protective ingredients—from the surface to the core.

Dip-treated wood

Dip-treated wood has only surface protection.

Awning

An awning window is appropriate for many architectural styles, and it looks intriguing when grouped with other window types. It is hinged at the top and opens out from the bottom in an upward swing.

Bay

This type of window is ideal for traditional or Victorian architecture, and increases the sense of openness in any room. A bay window is composed of three or more individual units. The center unit is parallel to the exterior wall with side or flanking units aligned at 30- or 45-degree angles.

Bow

A bow window subtly increases interior spaces by extending outward to create the illusion of a rounded exterior wall. A bow window consists of a series of four or more (commonly five) adjoining window units that are installed on a radius from the wall of the building.

Casement

A casement window perfectly complements the simplicity of modern design, while also providing maximum ventilation. This type of window is hinged on either side so the sash opens outward, to the right or left, in a swinging motion. We also offer push out casements that operate with unobtrusive friction hinges for a particularly clean look.

Double-Hung

This window is best suited to traditional architectural styles. Double-hung windows feature an upper and lower sash that slide vertically past each other in a single frame. In some cases, the sash tilt in for easy cleaning. We also offer a range of double-hung replacement windows, which are perfect for remodeling projects.

Garden

With a garden window, you can add a little greenhouse to any room. This is a projecting, three-sided window that includes one shelf, a glass top and a single-hung window on each side for maximum air circulation.

Radius and Geometric

Our radius and geometric windows let you showcase beautiful views and create intriguing arrangements with other window types. A geometric window has a shape with straight edges (e.g., rectangle or octagon), and a radius window has a circular or arched top shape.

Sidelight

A sidelight brings a beautiful radiance to nearly any entry or patio door. It is simply a window installed on one or both sides of the door.

Single-Hung

A single-hung window provides a classic appearance to any home. It features a stationary top sash and a bottom sash that slides vertically. We offer single-hung tilt windows with sash that tilt inside your home, as well as single-hung, side-load windows with removable sash. Both are designed for easy cleaning.

Slider

Each of our slider windows features clean lines for a streamlined look. This type of window has one stationary sash and one sash that glides to the right or left horizontally in grooves or tracks.

Sliding Patio Door

This type of door is perfect for nearly any patio or deck. It opens by sliding along horizontal tracks at the head and sill. Our sliding patio doors are available in two-, three- and four-panel designs.

Swinging Patio Door

Add an element of drama to your home, on either a small or grand scale, with a swinging patio door. These doors are available with one, two or more panels that swing either out or in on side hinges. This includes French doors, which open in the middle with no center mullion.

Transom

Bring additional visual interest to your home with a transom. This type of window is set above another window or a door. It can be either stationary or operational.

Clear choices

We offer several glass options to ensure our windows and patio doors are reliably energy efficient and durable. In fact, we have a glass type to meet the performance demands of any climate.

JELD-WEN is dedicated to crafting windows that meet the requirements of the ENERGY STAR® program. Windows with the ENERGY STAR label exceed the minimum energy efficiency criteria for the climate region you live in, sometimes by as much as 40 percent. This means you'll enjoy decreased home energy costs.

Low-E and Low-E 366 glass

Our standard high-performance Low-E insulating glass lowers energy costs, helps homes stay cooler in the summer and warmer in the winter, prevents fading of interior furnishings, and reduces condensation. It also delivers greater visible light transmittance than tinted glass. We also offer optional Low-E 366* glass, which offers more protection against heat gain, as well as greater energy savings.

In warm weather, Low-E glass reflects the sun's energy and prevents it from entering the home.

In cold weather, Low-E glass reduces the amount of heat lost by reflecting it back inside.

Insulating glass

Insulating glass consists of two panes of glass, sealed with an airspace. This glass offers outstanding thermal efficiency in most climates.

Tinted and textured glass*

Tinted glass reduces glare, and it's ideal for areas that get a lot of direct sunlight in the summer. Textured glass, such as Obscure, is also available; it lets light in while maintaining privacy.

Neat™ glass*

With this glass option you gain natural cleaning convenience. By harnessing the sun's UV rays (even when the sky is cloudy) to loosen dirt from the glass, rainwater can easily rinse away grime. No manual activation is required.

ImpactGard® protection*

Many of our windows and patio doors are available with ImpactGard® protection, which is engineered and tested to stand up to the strong impacts of windborne debris, as well as the harsh conditions inherent to coastal areas. With the industry's leading laminated glass technology, products with ImpactGard protection can withstand a nine-pound piece of lumber striking the glass head-on at approximately 35 miles per hour. Additionally, it significantly reduces sound transmission, blocks up to 95 percent of harmful UV rays and offers superior forced-entry resistance.
